If your child knows how to recognize the right and left, knows the clocks, has basic hygiene habits and is able to communicate basic with the teacher (eg to announce that he is sick) - it is not a problem for him to manage camp himself. For young children, it is recommended the participation of the parents, rather than the long-term and crying daily phone calls home, which is technically and difficult to make here. Parents must encourage direct communication between the student and the teacher.

I believe that anyone who is interested in taekwon-do will use these opportunities to practice intensively, even under the guidance of Grandmaster Hwang Ho-yong himself, and will certainly be rewarded with a nice result in exams or competition. Remember that it is better to come just for the weekend than to sit at home. I hope that everyone who is really interested in practicing will choose at least one event - otherwise consider whether TKD is not just a waste of time for you. Camps for beginners and white and yellow belts are very important. A massive recruitment of newcomers will take place again in September, and those who do not have a yellow belt will start with them again. Therefore, we recommend all beginners to make every effort to achieve the yellow belt during the summer . Everyone who did not attend the training camp last year should choose at least one event so that they do not lose the right to free equipment.

You'd better read the whole leaflet one more time .
